DocuBay Secures License Deal with Action-Sports Distributor Ananda Media

(July 31st, 2019 — Mumbai, India and New York, USA): DocuBay, the premium international documentary VOD streaming service by IN10 Media Group, announced a license deal with Ananda Media, the France-based global distributor of action sports and adventure travel programming. The license deal features award-winning titles shot in 4K and from a wide range of topics including Latino boxing culture, solo Arctic sailors, adventure climbing, and the sport of aerial silks. All the films will be available for streaming on DocuBay when the service launches globally in August 2019.

Also, El Boxeo, the award-nominated feature of the emergence and dominance of Latinos in boxing, once a traditional all-white sport.

Notable 4K titles acquired include Una – The One, a feature following the story of the endangered Una River in the Balkan region; The British Backpacker Society: Across the Sahara, an adventure story of a young group of British backpackers using any means necessary to reach the shoreline of Senegal; and Running For Good: The Fiona Oakes Documentary, a feature by award-winning director Keegan Kuhn that follows world record marathon runner Fiona Oakes in her attempt to set a new global record in endurance racing.
